

CREATE Community Partnerships Program

Our Mission

To make technology accessible and make the world accessible through technology

To achieve our mission, CREATE relies on the expertise of those active in the disability community to help guide our efforts. CREATE is looking to connect with organizations interested in sharing their knowledge, expertise, and lived experiences. CREATE's partnerships with the community touch all stages of our work – from listening to the needs of those with lived experience to identify future projects, collaborating with impacted communities during the research process, and gathering feedback from users when that research is translated into real-world applications.
